Today, after breakfast, your expert guide will pick you up in a 4x4 Land Cruiser and take you to Canyonlands National Park for an off-road adventure. Visit Thelma & Louise Point, where the final scene of the movie was filmed. Then, hike through secret caves and caverns that lie just beneath the White Rim Sandstone formation. Other highlights may include a visit to Goose Neck Overlook, Lathrop Canyon, Musselman Arch and for thrill-seekers, the infamous Shafer Trail, considered by many to be the most dangerous road in America. No need to worry though, as your guide is a local expert who has driven the road countless times before. After your adventure conclude, find yourself at one of Canyonlands' most incredible overlooks for a gourmet picnic lunch overlooking the canyons.

In the afternoon, dial up the excitement with a canyoneering adventure in an off-the-grid canyon known only to locals. Canyoneering is one of the most exciting ways to experience Canyonlands' unique desert landscape, combining hikes, climbs and rappels down narrow slot canyons.
